I. NEW PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME COURT DECISION SUPPRESSING ALL EVIDENCE DERIVED FROM WARRANTLESS SEARCH OF A CELL PHONE

On February 21, 2018, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court suppressed all evidence derived from the warrantless search of a cell phone. Commonwealth v. Fulton, 2018 PA Lexis 982 (2/21/18). I successfully argued that the Supreme Court must establish a categorical rule prohibiting the warrantless search of cell phones and, to deter misconduct by police, it must suppress all evidence derived from the warrantless search. The Supreme Court agreed that it was a Fourth Amendment violation to (1) open the phone, (2) examine the directories for the telephone number assigned to the phone, and (3) keep the phone powered on so the police could intercept phone calls. The Supreme Court unanimously rejected the lower courts' conclusions that opening the phone to look for the phone number, and answering the phone were "minimal intrusions." Finally, the Court held that the Fourth Amendment violations were not harmless because the remaining evidence was conflicting. For example, the testimony of the State's witnesses was not consistent with prior statements to police. Moreover, the statements were not consistent with the dying declaration of the decedent. The third degree murder conviction was vacated.
